Host City

South Carolina Made for Vacation™

Isle of Palms, on the slender barrier island of the same name, is known for its beaches backed by condos and eateries. Sea turtles nest in the area. The oceanfront Isle of Palms County Park includes a beach, picnic areas and a playground. Neighboring Sullivan's Island is home to Fort Moultrie, site of important battles during the American Revolution and the Civil War.

Nearby Charleston, the more well-known port city founded in 1670, is defined by its cobblestone streets, horse-drawn carriages and pastel antebellum houses, particularly in the elegant French Quarter and Battery districts. The Battery promenade and Waterfront Park both overlook Charleston Harbor, while Fort Sumter, a federal stronghold where the first shots of the Civil War rang out, lies across the water.

Looking to enjoy some time on the water? There are plenty of activities such as paddleboarding, kayaking, and boating on the many waterways that surround the city. Fishing charters are also available for those who want to try their luck at catching some of the local seafood.

Historic walking tours are a great way to explore the city's architecture, landmarks, and stories from the past. When you get done exploring, get ready to experience Charleston's incredible nightlife! We have a vibrant bar and restaurant scene along with a boat load of live music and entertainment.

Performance Group Meetings

Spend three days working on your business instead of working in your business.

Imagine being with over one hundred shop owners for the sole purpose of exchanging business growth ideas. That is exactly what happens at Acoat Selected Performance Group meetings.

Acoat Selected Performance Group members meet to share successes, find solutions to problems, and make new relationships with like minded shop owners from across North America. The wealth of knowledge and experience present at these meetings is nothing short of awe inspiring.

The meetings consist of two primary functional arrangements - group activities and individual sub-group sessions. Group activities include keynote speakers, idea contests, panel discussions, early bird classes, awards ceremonies, and a host of other venue specific functions. Members mingle and converse with the group at large during these membership-wide activities. Many of the people in attendance remark about how much they value the conversations that take place at the group functions. With so many people in attendance you are sure to find someone who has solved the problems you face or has had a great business improvement idea you can implement. The second functional arrangement, sub-group sessions, is where the hard work gets done. Similar in method to a conventional 20 group, members of like sized shops analyze financial data, formulate improvement strategies, assist each other in problem solving, and share experiences. The close friendships, both personal and professional, created at the meetings are immensely valuable to the members. They know that anytime during the year they can contact a known, trusted shop owner for advice. That is a good feeling.

"The performance group meetings have been outstanding. I find that just getting away from the business twice a year to attend the meetings improves my perspective significantly. The opportunity to benchmark, to collaborate with my peers in the industry, and to set new goals has really sharpened my skills as a businessman. It's made a difference on the bottom line!"
